'The Tempest'

FORTHCOMING PRODUCTION

BY KATHERINE TINGLEY OF
SHAKESPERIAN MASTERPIECE

San Diegan who love Shakespeare—especially those who have witnessed the many presentations by the Raja-Yoga Players under Katherine Tingley's direction in the beautiful open-air Greek theater at Point Loma—will welcome the announcement that on April 16th and 17th there will be an opportunity of seeing there the farewell masterpiece of the great bard, "The Tempest."

The following critical comments by Kenneth Morris, Welsh poet and professor of literature at the Theosophical University, are timely, particularly in view of the comparison he makes between "The Tempest" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Most local devotees of Shakespeare have seen the Raja-Yoga Players in the latter; but "The Tempest" has never been performed before in the Greek theater. Professor Morris writes:

"The play with which 'The Tempest' most instantly challenges comparison is the 'Midsummer Night's Dream'; these are the two in which Shakespeare leads us into the realms of faerie. Hazlitt says that the former is the greater play, the latter the greater poem; but this judgment, especially the latter part of it, is disputable. The 'Midsummer Night' is the fresh adventure of the boy poet into fairyland; he riots there irresponsible in company with a pack of hempen homespun whose antics keep his sides shaking continually; the 'Tempest' is the mellow perfection of maturity; a glow of ever deepening, ever richer growing loveliness; for irresponsibility you have grave and kindly wisdom.

"There are perhaps, as Hazlitt argues, fewer quotable passages of exquisite beauty; it is because the whole play is such a passage. In none other is there such a glowing, jewel-like, rainbow-like effect of color. In 'Midsummer Night' the hues are the flickering greens and browns of an English woodside, blue-flecked with glimpses of the sky, or the staidness of an English twilight, faintly rippled through with elf-lights. In 'Romeo and Juliet' we have the burning color of human passions; so too in 'Anthony and Cleopatra,' where pomp and magnificence, Roman and Egyptian sovereignty, are added.

"But through the 'Tempest' one senses an effect of tropical sunsets, the sapphires and splendors of a tropical evening. Like the dying dolphin of mythology (and perhaps of natural history) he would go out in a glory of color; but there is no riot or wild disorder excess in it; he is the master here in every hue and shadow. He would go out, and have the grandest, sweetest music of Nature herself to be accompaniment for his exit; he has achieved perfection, and majestic harmony at last."

HENRY EULBERG SAYS

HOLLEY HOT PLATE VAPORIZER

WORKS WONDERS

Free trial for thirty days is given to every Ford owner who purchases a "Holley Hot Plate Vaporizer" at the Ocean Beach Garage on Newport avenue, where Henry Eulberg will fully demonstrate the many merits of the new device.

It is asserted that mechanically nothing could be simpler or more economical than this new vaporizer, which can be easily installed on all Ford models of any date. It is more and better than a carburetor, says expert Eulberg, as its value commences where the carburetor's ends. Moreover, there is no crankcase dilution, no wear and tear on the motor and no undue carbon formation.

With the Holley Hot Plate Vaporizer it is positively claimed that every portion of the gasoline, however inferior it is heated to the vaporizing point; every particle passes into the combustion chamber as a true gas; every particle is exploded, adding very materially to power, and because a far leaner mixture is used, mileage is necessarily far greater per gallon.

"Sunset Boulevard"

PETITION FILED

FOR CHANGING NAME

OF DE FOE STREET

A petition has been filed with the city council asking for the paving of De Foe street full width from Newport avenue to Sunset Cliffs and the changing of name of that thoroughfare to "Sunset Boulevard." It is pointed out, however, that there is already a street in Mission Hills named "Sunset boulevard" and it is presumed that the residents of that section will consent to the adoption of another name more appropriate to the topography of that district.

America's "Gretna Green"

About 40,000 couples has Justice of the Peace Howard Kemp at Crown Point, Ind., started off on the sea of matrimony since he took over the marrying office thirteen years ago. He is declared to have joined more couples in wedlock than any other man alive and earned the title of the "Marrying Squire." The tiny county seat is often referred to as the Gretna Green of America. Many prominent folks have patronized the Hoosier matrimonial office, including Rudolph Valentino on one of his ventures into the wedded state.

THIRD MASS MEETING
AT MISSION BEACH

Last Wednesday, March 24th, another mass meeting gathered in the Surf Cafe on the Boulevard, Harry K. Turner acting as chairman. In the absence of so many committeemen during the past week, Fred Jennings reported that he had delegated J. A. Harris and John Chambers to go with him to the office of the city engineer, where they discovered that none of the plans had been turned in as directed at the previous mass meeting, so nothing had been done. City Engineer Jorgensen stated he would be glad to receive any further data or information which we could give him.

NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM

This committee also inquired about the 27c a month lighting system. The clerk informed them that orders had been given but insufficient equipment had delayed them and new material was ordered and is now on its way from Massachusetts. The lights will be in by May 1st.

EMERGENCY MEASURE

Mr. Turner stated the most important thing is to get the city engineer to act because a lot of plans come ahead of our seawall and he believed it a good idea to send a committee to ask City Engineer Jorgensen to attend to our business as an emergency measure.

AN OLD-TIMER SPEAKS

John Campbell, who has lived in our locality for 40 years, then gave a talk. He has a plan which was accepted by the government as the best plan for bulkhead work. The first seawall Mr. Campbell built was at the mouth of the Tyne at Newcastle, England, and can be seen there today. This type is also used in the lighter construction at Galveston and in New Orleans.

WALK TO BE 12 FEET WIDE

There was some discussion about getting permission from the government to use two feet more of beach and widen the walk to fourteen feet, as it is the ambition of some that at a future time Mission Beach will be the Atlantic City of the West. Many maintained, however, that as this would have to be taken up with the government it would delay the matter too much, so a motion was carried that the new walk remain at the present width, 12 feet.

COMMITTEE MEETING

A motion was made to submit plans to the city engineer and an amendment on this motion to the effect that the committee look over plans first, the committee to meet Friday, March 26th, at Harry K. Turner's house, and at that time the

GEORGE E. HOLT'S

NEW NOVEL OF ADVENTURE

JUST FROM THE PRESS

Booksellers are preparing for quite a demand for George E. Holt's new novel of adventure, "By Favor of Allah," just published by Andrew Melrose, Ltd., London, England. It is an exceptionally interesting and clever story of stirring adventures in Morocco, Africa, based upon the world-famous exploits of the notorious outlaw, Raisuli, who captured and held an American citizen for $100,000 ransom.

Mr. Holt, the author of "By Favor of Allah," knew Raisuli rather intimately and is a member of the famous "Adventurers' Club" of Los Angeles. He is a resident of Mission Beach and was a most pleasant caller at "The Beach News" office early this week.

Fighting Fire

THREE PROPER WAYS

OF TURNING IN ALARM TO

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Many a home could have been saved if the fire calls had been put in correctly and promptly. E. R. Newton, deputy fire marshal, has consented to give the following educational article on this important subject:

"At time of fire it is of the utmost importance to know how to get the fire department as quickly as possible and to be able to do this some thought should be given to the matter in advance so that time may not be lost when the fire starts. Delayed alarms have been the cause of a large number of serious fires.

"It should be remembered that the people are paying for the upkeep of a fire department; who are ready to respond instantly at any hour of the day or night, and only ask that they be given the correct location of the fire as soon after it starts as possible.

"There are three ways of turning in alarms of fire as they are classified by the fire department, they are: By pulling fire alarm box; by telephone, and verbally or by word of mouth. The first which is quickest and most reliable is by box. In this instance, always remember that all fire alarm boxes are painted red.

"There are two kinds of fire alarm boxes in San Diego which differ slightly in appearance and in method of operating. They are the keyless door type and the key guard boxes. The keyless door boxes have a handle on the outside and the only thing necessary to operate this box is to turn this handle to the right 'until the bell rings.' This is the important thing about this type of box, the alarm is not turned in to the fire department until the bell rings. This type of box is used almost entirely in the downtown part of the city. It is impossible to pull this type of box accidentally.

"The key guard boxes have a key in the door covered by a glass guard. To operate this box it is necessary to break this glass guard, which is of thin glass and easily broken, then use the key to open door and pull down the handle on the inside of the box. No bell can be heard when this box is pulled. It is this type of box which is used almost exclusively in the outlying sections of the city.

"Every person should inform himself of the location of their nearest fire alarm box so that it could be reached without delay.

"In some parts of the city the alarm boxes are far apart, and then the best way to get the department is by phone. Many mistakes are made in turning in alarms by phone as, in the majority of cases, the person phoning is in a more or less agitated frame of mind.

"With the manual phones all that is necessary to get the fire department is to tell the operator that you want the fire department. With the automatic phones it is necessary to know the number which is on the top of the front page of the telephone directory. It must be remembered that you are not speaking to the station nearest your home but to the fire alarm operator at fire department headquarters.

"As soon as fire alarm operator answers, tell him what is on fire and the street on which it is located with the nearest cross street. The operator will repeat the location so that you may know that he has the proper location.

"If something else than a house is on fire, such as an automobile, rubbish, grass, etc., it should be so stated. You may give the house number but it is not absolutely necessary. In any case after you have sent in an alarm, have someone stay out in the street in the vicinity until the first company arrives to show them where the fire is located, as it may be inside of a building and not readily observable from the outside.

"If no alarm box or telephone is available the only way to notify the fire department is by someone going to the nearest fire station in person and telling them of the fire. This is what is known as a verbal alarm. "These are the various ways of notifying the fire department when there is a fire, and everyone is urged to familiarize themselves with each of them so that no delay may be encountered in case they are so unfortunate as to have a fire."

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

A note of warning to wool growers of the country was sounded at the annual meeting in Red Bluff, Tehama county, of the Northern California Wool Warehouse company by Fred A. Ellenwood, vice president of the National Wool Growers' association, who, although the United States is enjoying marked prosperity, cautioned the growers against over-expansion and the tendency to spend money recklessly. He said unless they get back to a more conservative basis, they are "riding to a bad fall."

That a large tract will be bought in the Lodi section of San Joaquin county and colonized by dissatisfied Nebraska farmers, is the statement of Col. Robert S. Oberfeld of Lodi. He has been quietly looking over the country from Sacramento to Lodi for some time, and states he is highly pleased with what he has seen. His Eastern associate, whom he declines to announce at present, sent a scout into this section several months ago, and his report, states Oberfeld, was all that could be wished.

RADIO

The Wiring Diagram for Five-Tube Radio-Frequency Receiver.

By EDWARD SPIEGLER,
In New York Herald-Tribune.

For a dependable, trustworthy radio broadcast receiver, one that will work consistently night in and night out without fuss or bother, the writer believes it is difficult to find one more desirable than a straight five-tube, three-dial tuned radio-frequency set constructed with efficient condensers and tuning coils and equipped with standard accessories. The sensitivity, selectivity and volume of an outfit of this type can be practically guaranteed in advance, and the builder can be assured that he is not spending his money on some one's notion of a freakishly "different" receiver of undetermined worth. When he has finished the wiring and connected the batteries he will hear broadcasting, and hear it well.

The writer recently completed such a receiver, incorporating in it the acceptable innovation of a few new tuning inductances, and enjoyed an instant satisfaction from it that was unusual. He had previously made a number of popularly exploited radio-frequency sets of different design, and had spent whole evenings of patient adjustment on each in an effort to obtain good results. This orthodox, unpretentious outfit, boasting nothing more radical than some straight-line frequency condensers and some different R. F. coils, produced such immediate results in the form of many and loud stations that he thinks people who want fool-proof receivers should be told about it.

Parts Required.

The average constructor will have no difficulty in assembling the set with the aid of ordinary hand tools. The parts required are a panel 7 by 24 inches, of any good insulating material; a half-inch thick wood baseboard of the same dimensions, three Gen-win Lemnis coils, three .00035 mfd. straight-line frequency condensers, three dials to fit same, one six, and one thirty-ohm rheostat, one double and one single-circuit telephone jack, five standard tube sockets, grid condenser and leak, two audio-frequency transformers, one .A.F. transformer, one binding post strip and the usual busbar and other incidentals.

The set is most conveniently assembled in two units, the panel and the baseboard.

The sockets for the R. F. tubes occupy the space between the variable condensers and a little to the rear of them. The detector socket is up in the extreme upper right corner of the baseboard, and is followed by the A. F. transformers and tubes winding along the back edge of the board. The second A. F. tube is in the upper left section, its "P" post going conveniently to the telephone jack in the lower left corner of the panel. Similarly, the right-hand jack connects to the adjacent detector socket.

This U-shaped layout keeps all the connections very short and in their logical order.

About 90 per cent of the wiring involved in the construction of this receiver can and should be done on the baseboard instruments before the panel is screwed into position. The constructor is advised against assembling the parts first and wiring afterward, as the presence of the protruding variable condensers will make the installation of many of the wires exceedingly difficult.

No binding posts are provided for the "C" battery, as this unit is most easily connected by means of short lengths of flexible cord. The other battery connections are standard and are easily followed.

The Wiring.

The wiring of the R. F. and A. F. stages is more or less orthodox in nature. The three variable condensers are connected directly across the respective secondaries of the Lemnis coils, with stationary plates going to the grids of the tubes and rotary plates to the filament circuit.

The feature of this receiver, outside of its general effectiveness, is the type of radio-frequency tuning units employed. Each one consists of a 15-turn primary and a 103-turn secondary, the wire being wound according to the lemniscate principle. This form confines the electromagnetic field and neutralizes the tendency toward oscillation. The extraordinary length of the lemniscate curve reduces the resistance, otherwise encountered in small diameter coils.

The wire used is No. 26 enameled, high turn-to-turn capacity being avoided by a system of spaced winding. Over all, a coil is just three inches long and two and three-quarters across the loops; the small diameter of the latter is one inch. An ingenious experimenter can readily rig up a winding jig made of two short curtain pole sections nailed on end of a board and produce desirable coils.

The directions which the magnetic flux of each section of these coils assume by virtue of the peculiar winding scheme are such that the coils as units have completely confined magnetic fields. This property precludes the necessity of mounting the coils at particular angles in a receiver in order to prevent interstage coupling. The absence of interaction also gives each coil a fixed and definite inductance value.

The last mentioned fact is responsible for a very desirable effect, namely, the almost exact co-ordination of the three variable condenser readings, from 200 meters right up to 600. Different aerial lengths seem to have little influence on the first condenser reading, the variation at three different locations being not more than one point on a 100-unit scale. To select several DX stations of some sixty-five tuned in during two nights of listening, the dial readings were 70½, 71 70 for WMBF, Miami Beach, Fla.; 69½, 69, 69 for WGY, Schenectady, and 89, 89, 89 for WIP, Philadelphia. It is actually possible to hear a station on each dial setting, because of the wave channel allocations and of the straight line frequency characteristic of the receiver.

Friendly Old Pie Pan

Serves as an Antenna

The only parts necessary to construct this serviceable indoor antenna are a pie pan, nearby telephone, battery clip, and from 10 to 20 feet of copper-insulated wire. The battery clip should be clamped to the rim of the pan after spot on pan has been sandpapered or scraped for good contact. Wire is attached to clip, and

The other end is connected to the antenna-binding post of the radio set. If wave length is too high or tuning is broad, insert a folded piece of newspaper or piece of cardboard between phone and pie pan.—Radio Digest.

Chicago Fan DX Champ; Makes Daylight Record

What is believed to be a record for daylight reception was hung up by KFI, Los Angeles, when a football game, broadcast from a remote control in the Los Angeles coliseum, was received in Chicago, commencing at 2:35 p. m. Central time. With two grid contests scheduled, the whistle blew for the first game at 12:30 p. m., Pacific time, and it was reception of this game that brought a Chicago radio fan into prominence as a daylight DX champ. Undoubted proof that this daylight transmission and reception is not freakish is found in the fact that 5,000 students of the University of Iowa heard an entire Iowa-U. S. C. game in Los Angeles and broadcast from KFI. Hundreds of letters and telegrams on both days indicated that daylight reception of KFI in the Central and Midwest states is general. Daylight reception over great distances on extremely short waves is not unusual, but KFI was on its normal wave length of 467 meters for both games.

Learn How to Solder Before Building Set

This business of soldering radio sets is easy once you get the knack of it. If possible to use an electric iron it will be found that soldering becomes still more child's play. And don't use anything but rosin core solder. You don't have to bother about applying the flux before the solder for it's already in it. Just see that the two things to be soldered are clean, then get your iron hot and touch it to the metal for a few seconds to get it hot. Now touch your iron to the solder, retaining some of it at the tip of the iron, touch the tip of the iron to the place to be soldered and the solder will run off the iron, making the joint—and it's all over.

Burnt Tubes Useful

Use your burnt-out tubes as a battery connector. Break the glass, solder leads from the battery to the wires inside the brass shell and fill the shell with sealing wax. Now connect the battery leads from the wiring of the set to a socket arranged conveniently on the back of the cabinet. It is a simple matter then to "plug in."

SUFFERED MANY YEARS WITH FEMALE TROUBLE
PE-RU-NA
LIKE A GIFT FROM HEAVEN

Mrs. Katie Scheffel,
R. F. D. No. 5, Lowell, Ohio

"I have been suffering for years with female trouble. Was operated on five years ago. It relieved me some but I did not regain my strength. Two years later was taken sick and bedfast several months. I treated a long while without much relief. I was discouraged, my mind affected, so nervous I could neither eat or sleep and unable to do anything.

We tried several doctors but one after another gave up my case as hopeless. Finally a good friend advised me to try Pe-ru-na. I did. It relieved me almost immediately. Your medical department said I was suffering from chronic catarrh of the system. I began taking your medicine in March, 1914, and continued until August. I took ten bottles of Pe-ru-na and felt like a new person. Your medicine seemed like a gift from Heaven. It was like coming from darkness into light.

We have used your medicine since for coughs, colds and grip with good results. We will always keep it on hand. I weigh twenty-five pounds more than I ever did, eat and sleep well and can do a good day's work. Everybody says I look fine. Even the doctors are surprised. I cannot thank you enough and will always recommend Pe-ru-na to sufferers from catarrh."

MRS. KATIE SCHEFFEL,
R. F. D. No. 5, Lowell, O.

Mrs. Scheffel is only one of many thousand women in the world, who owe their present health to Pe-ru-na. The record of this medicine is a proud one as Pe-ru-na has held the confidence of both sexes for fifty years or more.

If your trouble is due to a catarrhal inflammation in any organ or part of the body, do like Mrs. Scheffel. Try Pe-ru-na. Insist upon having the original and reliable remedy for catarrhal conditions. You won't be sorry.

Jay Walker to Blame for Half of the Deaths by Auto

MANY a motorist whose car has figured in a fatal accident will be able to present a clear sheet to Saint Peter when his time comes, when one considers all the contributing factors outside of the driver's own fault. A total of 1,390 auto fatalities on record with the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, covering a period of seven months, shows that in 727 cases the fault was clearly the pedestrian's and cannot be put down to the driver, the weather or unavoidable circumstances.

The careless pedestrian's footsteps lead him to the grave by six distinct routes, says the Safety Council, and the most travel-worn of these is 'jaywalking'. Sixty-two per cent of the 727 auto fatalities just referred to were due to straggling across busy streets without using the intersections. Children's playing in the streets was responsible for 31 per cent and coasting for another 3 per cent. Confusion on the part of the pedestrian, not hearing whistles and turning back in his tracks, brought about 9 per cent of these 727 deaths, while physical disability and intoxication rate 3 and 2 per cent respectively.

EARLY in 1925, oat prices were so high, reports the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, that consumption was actually checked. Then the market began to decline and with large stocks coming on through commercial channels, reached a low level in April, went up again in June, fell to less than 40 cents in August and stayed at that low level. The 1925 crop was 1,501,909,000 bushels and the carry-over from 1924 was larger than usual. Total supplies of oats in all sections were only 20,000,000 bushels less than in 1924 when the crop of 1,522,665,000 bushels was harvested.

Prices started to go down in February and March, went up somewhat during June but came down again in August and have maintained a general low level. Oat prices are likely to advance toward spring as commercial stocks are reduced and the consuming sections of the country draw more extensively on the terminal markets.

WHATEVER YOU DO

A good thing to remember
And a better thing to do,
Is to work with the construction gang,
And not with the wrecking crew.

WHAT WILL "NO. 61" DO?

"No. 61," one of the five unknowns among the 92 elements that compose all matter, was discovered at the University of Illinois early in March with the aid of electrical instruments.

What use is mankind going to find for it?

When science discovered argon, the "laziest" and most inert of all gases, industry found that it would make excellent filling for electric lamps, adding to their life.

Almost all other elements have been put to work and now industry will study the new stranger, "No. 61," to find out how it will serve humanity.

Let's hope it may prove a panacea for the paving and lighting ills as well as seawall woes of the beach districts!

A WORD OR TWO

ABOUT BEING CHARITABLE

IN CRITICIZING NEWSPAPERS

Criticizing the home newspaper is the favorite pastime of many folks. Like public officials, what it says and what it does are constantly before the public, and its errors are easily detected.

An individual may go through life making one mistake after another, and few will know it, but let your newspaper err in ever a small detail, and the critics have a choice morsel to chew.

Newspapers, though mechanical, are human, because they are conceived by human mind and put together by human hands.

They are liable to error as any man or woman and their opportunities for making mistakes may be found in every line—in every word.

A wrong street address, incorrect spelling of names, little inaccuracies may creep into the newspapers' columns, no matter how earnestly the editor and his assistants may strive to be accurate.

All your home newspaper asks is that you be charitable. Make a few allowances for the difficulties that beset the newspaper publisher, and remember always, that nothing hurts a newspaper editor quite so much as to see his mistakes in print. He has no chance to cover them up.

Don't forget that newspapers are made by human minds and human hands, and to err is human.

NEWSPAPER MAN

I am the wife of a newspaper man; built on the stay-at-home, all-alone plan.

He is a fellow whose work is his life, making yours truly a newspaper wife.

Dinner is ready, he's seldom on hand; got an assignment, a story to land.

Watching the clock, I just ramble through books; really, I've almost forgotten his looks.

Riches could never entice him away; here in his newspaper work he will stay.

Some of his neighbors believe he is dead—never gets home till they're all gone to bed.

Others think he's a traveling man. Neighborly functions don't fit in his plan.

He doesn't care what they think about him. He's in the game, while they're just on the rim.

I am the wife of a newspaper man! Lucky the woman that's in the same van.

Hardships it means; though it may seem rather strange—I wouldn't want him to falter or change.

He has a calling in which he's wrapped up. Keeps his interest; full is his cup.

Please keep your pity—it's under my ban. I am the wife of a newspaper man.

KATHERINE.

AND MANAGEMENT CORPORATION
ENGINEERS-MANAGERS

When San Diego's first electric light plant was placed in operation it served only a few lucky customers in the immediate vicinity of the station; but with the development of the power company through inventive genius and efficient management, electric service has been extended great distances from the generating stations. As a result thousands of acres of previously unproductive land have been placed under cultivation.

Cactus-covered wastes of a few years ago are now dotted with orange groves, and the coyote has given way to herds of dairy cattle.

Water pumped by electric power is to a great degree responsible for this transformation.

And the most surprising of all is that the cost of this service is less than before the war, while the cost (per person) of living is 65 per cent, and government 156 per cent greater.

This company will gladly assist San Diego County ranchers in solving their pumping problems.

THOMAS KIRKBRIDE

THE story of the life of Thomas Kirkbride is to a great extent the story of the new treatment of insanity in this country. It seems almost unbelievable that, up to a short time ago, very little about insanity was known, and insane people were treated worse than criminals.

In the early days of Egypt and Greece and Jerusalem, however, lunatics were treated somewhat after the enlightened fashion that Kirkbride used—treated kindly, given a certain amount of manual labor, kept in beautiful surroundings with good music to listen to and pretty things to look at.

In the Middle Ages, all this was forgotten and lunatics were thought possessed of devils. They were subjected to the cruelest of tortures, put in chains in dark dungeons, and regarded with abhorrence. Up to but little more than a hundred years ago, they were confined with criminals in prisons. Then a few enlightened souls began to work for them, and secured separate asylums for them and proper treatment.

On July 31, 1809, Thomas Kirkbride was born in Morrisville, Pa., of a family whose ancestors came over with Penn. and of the religion of the Friends, who always led in intelligent charity. First as head of the Friends asylum in Philadelphia, and then of the Pennsylvania hospital, he made a specialty of insanity and its treatment. Kirkbrides, in Philadelphia, is named for him. He was the first to insist on separate buildings for the sexes, and raised money to treat and cure cases. He died in 1883.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

WE ARE asked to use more corn to relieve the overstocked market. This need be no hardship, for there are so many good things which can be prepared from corn and corn meal. If every household used a few pounds a week in various ways, it would solve the whole problem and benefit the family. We need more of the coarser foods to keep us healthy.

The old-fashioned kettle of mush served at least once a week and what is left fried and served with bacon for breakfast, is one way to serve corn for two meals.

A most satisfying and delicious pudding is prepared with corn meal as follows:

Baked Suet Pudding.

Add one cupful of corn meal to one quart of boiling milk; when free from lumps add a cupful of chopped suet, one cupful of raisins, one and one-fourth cupfuls of brown sugar, two beaten eggs; add one more quart of milk and pour into a crockery baking dish. Dredge with one-fourth cupful of flour. Stir occasionally at first, and bake three hours.

Sliced Chicken Sandwiches.

Cut cold stewed or roasted chicken into very thin slices. Spread white bread with green pepper butter, lay on thin slices of chicken and cover with slices of bread that have been spread with mayonnaise dressing. Cut the sandwiches into three strips or into triangles. Garnish each with three thin slices of stuffed olives. Serve with coffee.

A GOOD OLD STOVE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE'S nothing like a good old stove.

Buy what you will, say what you will.

The more I live, the more I rove.

The more I find, when days are chill.

The only thing to warm you through is something you can get up to.

A furnace, yes, it's mighty nice;

But it's down cellar hid away.

When you come in all snow and ice

You want to see the firelight play.

The heat that's right, the heat that's real.

You have to see as well as feel.

There's something cordial in the light

That glitters through the isinglass.

It lends a comfort to the night.

And redder makes the ruddy lass

And fairer makes the fairest home

To any man who has to roam.

There's nothing like a good old friend.

They're much like stoves, it seems to me.

Whatever wisdom books may lend,

You want a friend that you can see.

Some hand to touch, a faith to feel,

The kind of friendship that is real.

However wise the wisest men,

However great they may appear,

When you're in difficulty, then

You want a friend you needn't fear.

When cold and weary, weak and blue,

A friend that you can get up to.

The Hotel Stenographer

By Roe Fulkerson

THE Hotel Stenographer sighed.

"What's eating you?" asked the House Detective, grinning.

"The fact that I am a woman," answered the girl.

"I am going to a swell dance, Kelly, given by the Amalgamated Association of Radio Expert Salesmen at Harmony hall. There will be dress suits and punch and everything."

"These radio people are hot sketches, Kelly. I am apt to meet my fate and get married. I was thinking that if I met some sleek-haired boy who wants me to share his radio set and I married him I would have to decide whether we would put our aerial in a bungalow in the suburbs or live in a flat."

"I have had so much of living in self-contained apartments where the ice box is under the bed and the bath turns around and is a phonograph on the other side, that I am sick unto death of 'em."

"Living in the country will be all right, Kelly, when we get good roads everywhere, but it's a lot of trouble to get to and from a suburban bungalow, in the mud. Sometimes it rains before they get 'em paved and they wash down, and even after they are built you are likely to have trouble."

"Marie Murphy married a dancing instructor at the Odeon and they bought a big police dog and a bungalow. While they were in the back yard figuring on a garden, they tied the dog to the bungalow steps. A cat came along and the dog ran after her and they lost the house and the dog both. But I suppose those are the kind of things you have to expect when you own a home of your own. These troubles have taken most of the pleasure out of tonight's dance. If I meet that sleek-haired radio confidence man who is to make me happy, I wonder if I will be."

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

By George Matthew Adams

"WON'T you sit down?" she said, after they had talked a while of this and that, and Lois Coffee's eloquence, and that and this. "Won't you sit down?"

"No, thanks," he replied easily. "I've been watching people sitting down so much lately that I've lost all desire to sit down myself."

And they continued chatting about whether there is really a future life, and the difference between a Cossack and a hassock, and one thing and another, and then she said, "Really, you must sit down."

"Oh, that's quite all right," he smiled blandly. "I seldom sit down, even at home. When my folks see me sitting down they exclaim, 'Why, you're sitting down, aren't you?'"

And he stayed till after eleven, airily passing off eight more invitations to sit down, and the next morning he called up Googler's Equitation Palace and explained that he didn't feel equal to taking his second riding lesson that day.

THE LIVE STOCK OF FONG TAY

By JAMES F. DWYER

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

FONG TAY sat in the little green grocery and puzzled over the mystery which encompassed him.

Fong was nervous and unstrung. His small eyes blinked behind the large horn spectacles as he peered through the window at the sidewalk beyond. His lean hands twisted nervously round each other as if their owner considered the movement helpful to the wondering mind that wrestled with the mystery. But Fong's brain was not equal to the task.

To the mind of the Chinaman it was no ordinary mystery. The happening that distressed him bordered on the supernatural, and as he sat dry-lipped and wide-eyed, his thoughts flew to the fat joss that sat in the smoke-flavored atmosphere of the little rear room. It was certainly a matter for the joss. No ordinary explanation would fit the bill, and to Fong's mind the little fat god was the only one that could divine the cause and prevent a recurrence of the peculiar happening.

The mystery centered on a bag of potatoes that Fong had placed on the sidewalk near the door of his shop. His experience of potato bags was large and varied, but this particular bag was an exception. Its actions were erratic and very distressing to the nerves of the Chinaman. It had been placed in a reclining position against the wall of the shop at an angle of sixty degrees, yet ten minutes after it had been placed there, it had raised itself upright, stood for a few seconds in a perpendicular position and then fell forward, spilling the potatoes into the gutter.

The Chinaman was astounded. There was no one within a ten-yard radius of the bag; its contents were new potatoes which Fong had sorted with his own hands; there was no visible agency by which the movement could be effected, and yet he had seen the bag deliberately raise itself and fling the spuds into the gutter. Fong stood staring stupidly at the nearly empty bag till his sense of thrift recalled him from the realms of conjecture. The little shop was situated upon a slight rise, and the potatoes that fell in the gutter were scampering wildly down the hillside, so the Chinaman started in pursuit.

Two boys who had been sitting on the opposite side of the street helped in the chase. They gathered up the runaway vegetables and carried them back to the shop, and Fong rewarded them with a present of six bananas. The bag was put back in its old position, but this time the Chinaman leaned it at a still greater angle from the perpendicular, so that a possibility of a repetition of the occurrence was made more remote. To Fong Tay's mind the happening was a remarkable one. If the bag had fallen sideways in the first instance it would not have startled him, but his astonishment arose from the fact that it had first attained a perpendicular position before falling outward. With his gaze fixed upon the erratic bag he backed into the shop and then watched it through the window.

But the potato bag had evidently cultivated a liking for the strange stunt. The Chinaman had not been in the shop more than five minutes when he was horrified to see it again rise slowly to a perpendicular position, pause a few seconds, and then fall heavily into the gutter. Once again the liberated potatoes bounced joyfully down the hillside as the terrified Fong rushed to the door. The Celestial was now convinced. It was perfectly clear to his mind that the bag was moved by supernatural agency.

The two boys who had retired to a doorstep on the other side of the street to eat the bananas they had earned by the first upset, again proffered their services to the stupefied Chinaman, and again the potatoes were rounded up and bagged. Fong paid them with more bananas and they returned to their old position, while the bag was once more fixed by its amazed owner.

It was at this juncture that Fong's thoughts flew to the joss. The fat god who sat contentedly behind the little stick of burning incense, was the proper person to grapple with the mystery. The Chinaman was aware of his own limitations, but he knew that the power of the joss was unfathomable. With semi-paralyzed limbs he pulled himself into the inner room and made a fervent plea for protection to the fat deity. The god was smiling peacefully, and Fong's nerves relaxed somewhat under the influence of the smile. Surely the joss would protect him. Fong had been a faithful devotee and it was right that the incense-smelling deity extend help to the terror-stricken worshiper. After praying he shuffled back into the shop and looked out fearfully through the window.

The sight that met his eyes made him grasp hastily at the counter for support. For the third time the bag uplifted itself without visible aid, balanced itself a second and then spurted its contents into the gutter. But that was not all. Fong's gurgles of horror were strangled by the subsequent happening. A basket containing tomatoes, that stood beside the potato bag, moved swiftly towards the edge of the sidewalk and imitated the action of the bag by tipping its contents into the street.

Fong Tay collapsed. He sat in the doorway and wept bitterly while the Fong's gurgles of horror were strangled by the subsequent happening. A basket containing tomatoes, that stood beside the potato bag, moved swiftly towards the edge of the sidewalk and imitated the action of the bag by tipping its contents into the street.

Fong Tay collapsed. He sat in the doorway and wept bitterly while the two boys chased the runaway vegetables down the hill. Light was beginning to dawn upon the Chinaman's mind, but the coming of knowledge did not lessen the tremendous fear that gripped him. He knew that it was the spirit of his mother's cousin that was causing the trouble!

The cousin had been dead some months, but before he died he had cursed Fong in a most strenuous manner, and the Celestial was sure that the erratic actions of his vegetables were the result of spirit vengeance. He was certain of it. The cousin had found it impossible to square matters during his lifetime, but had evidently taken the first opportunity that offered after passing into the unknown. A cold perspiration broke out on Fong when he thought to what length the vengeance of the dead man would go. Judged by the volume of the curses it would indeed be terrible.

He determined to take the potatoes and tomatoes inside the shop and then make another appeal to the joss. It was the duty of the joss to protect him. He had burned incense before the deity for a score of years, and now when he called upon him for protection the fat image did not respond.

Fong shrieked invocations to the god. He promised to double the daily supply of incense. He promised offerings of various kinds, but the joss gave no intimation that he would take the matter in hand. He smiled with calm indifference upon his fear-stricken worshiper, till, finally, Fong became annoyed. With distended eyes he turned upon the image and abused it. He called it epithets that he had never dared to call it. He cast insinuations upon its power to control the spirit of the dead cousin, and finally threatened it. He picked up the chopper that lay upon the meat block and threatened to smash the joss to atoms if the annoying spirit was not immediately chased outside a thousand-mile radius of the establishment. Fong's action amounted to unqualified blasphemy, but fear had driven him mad. After making the threat he returned to the shop and peered out.

All was quiet with the array of baskets and crates upon the sidewalk, and for a moment Fong thought that the threat had put the joss upon his mettle. Then a startling occurrence took place. A barrel containing apples slid quickly along the pavement and fell into the gutter. A small basket of turnips followed it hastily, and a well-filled bag made a sudden somersault and covered the sidewalk with a layer of green peas.

The Chinaman gave a wild yell of rage. Rushing to the door he slammed and locked it so that the spirit of his tormentor could not enter the shop, then swinging the meat chopper he dashed into the inner room to take his revenge upon the joss that had turned a deaf ear to his prayers.

The two boys seeing the disturbance amongst the vegetables again crossed the street in expectation of more bananas, but when they saw Fong shut the door they stopped and looked guiltily at each other. From inside the shop came wild yells and sounds of breaking crockery, and their fear increased. Hastily removing three fish-hooks from the barrel, basket and bag, they fled round the corner, winding as they ran the fish lines with which, while sitting on the other side of the street, they had caused the peculiar movements amongst Fong Tay's stock.

Next day the landlord of the little green grocery found that his tenant had fled, and he wondered much over the battered remnants of the joss that he found in the inner room. Fong had fled before the wrath of the dead cousin, but the two boys with the fish-hooks and line were regretting his departure.

Money Troubles for Tourists in China

Nowhere, it is said, is the money question such a vexation to the spirit as it is in China. There every city issues its own currency, which is not legal tender in any other city. Peking money is not good in Shanghai; Shanghai dollars will not pass in Hongkong; the Canton merchant refuses your Hongkong pelf; and you are forever running to the money changers, who charge you a big discount for turning the currency of one city into that of another. Worse still, there is "big money" and "little money," both of which you must have, and this is a sort of financial joke that you never quite understand, says Dorothy Dix, who has just completed an extensive tour of China.

For you can take $1, which is "big money," and get it changed into "little money," and have $1.15 or $1.20. If you buy some small article that you can pay for with the exact amount in "little money," the merchant will take it; but if you buy an article costing, say, $1.25 or $1.50, he will not take back in part payment the "little money" he has just given you.

Nowhere is there so much counterfeit money as in China, and in no other place is counterfeiting so skillfully done. Lead dollars that look exactly like the real thing are as plentiful as blackberries in summer, and in addition there are other dollars in which the silver had been dug out from the inside and the other surface carefully restored; so you have to be careful to deal only with reputable money changers, who stamp in black or else nick every dollar they give you. That is their "chop," and it is a guaranty that their money is the real thing.

RIBBON BEDECKS SPRING HATS; PAJAMAS REPLACE TEA GOWNS

WAS there ever a season when ribbon did not play an interesting part in the program of millinery design? Nor is this spring an exception to the rule. In fact, creative genius is making a record for itself in its cunning and complex handling of ribbon. It almost seems as if the modernistic way of conjuring ribbons into cocardes and conventional foldings, plaitings and what not is as scientifically carried out as a two-plus-two equals four problem in arithmetic. The picketed band of ribbon which encircles the crown of the hat at the right of this picture is typical of the a theme of fascinating interest.

The styling of pajamas is a matter of individual taste. Those who favor the strictly tailored modes number about fifty-fifty with those who see in these within-the-home garments an opportunity of indulging in the highly ornate and elaborate.

In either instance color and beautiful material play an important part in the creation of pajama modes. Tailored elegance is expressed in the pajama and boudoir coat in the picture. Opal gray crepe satin with borderings of Nile green, rose and orchid tell a charming color scheme. The Charming Spring Hats.

Ingenious and methodical ribbon manipulation which marks the trend of the mode. This charming version of an all-ribbon hat, for even the crown and brim are covered, is in lovely naive shading, for mother-of-pearl colorings are part of this season's glory.

In connection with ribbon, fashions just now the most important words are belting and velvet. Milliners are using these two types more than any other. As important as the kind and quality of the new ribbons is their coloring, as expressed by one all-important word, namely pastel. If the toque or turban be all of belting ribbon, which is fashion's whim at the moment, it will take on a springlike freshness of some lovely pastel rose, green, blue, maize or gray, very likely. Likewise the velvet ribbons which enhance the new bangkoks, felts and hair hats are in exquisite pastel tones or tints.

Not only are tailored ribbon effects important, for fanciful ribbon trims play a becoming part in the millinery graceful negligee jacket of match fabric is lined with orchid.

Among new Paris ideas in pajamas for the at-home tea is a model of black satin. Over this is worn a coat of the fabric made with flowing sleeves and a yoke, the entire enhanced with elaborately colorful embroidery.

Sleeveless models are in the list of accepted pajama fashions. A very lovely garment for the boudoir is made of rose crepe bordered with blue, lilac or blue. A single huge rose with leaves is embroidered on the front of the straight slipover blouse.

The last word among pajama modes is the cape model. There are the usual pajamas and blouse for this scheme as well. The model at the left top of the collection here pictured shows an ingenious ribbon trim as does also the hat in the center. Both these ribbons have metallic weaves for their foundation.

To consider pajamas as merely sleeping garments is to limit the role assigned them on the stage of fashion. To be sure, there are those of printed crepes and voiles, also sateen and similar tub-fabrics designed for that purpose and many there are who prefer them to any other nightgown. The modern woman, however, is replacing the trailing tea-gown with a handsome pajama ensemble. Thus have pajamas become style, over which is posed a cape of rather scant well-fitting lines. The collar is a standing band that ends in ties. Flower trimmings made of multi-colored yet subdued pastel colorings supply the decorative note.

Those ambitious to do home-sewing can find no more inspirational work for deft fingers and imagination for design than is presented in the new, novel and yet practical pajama ensembles. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

APPETIZING DISHES FOR SERVING RICE

Recipes Are Given for Several Good Combinations.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In those parts of the United States where rice is a common staple of diet, many appetizing and nourishing dishes are served in which the rice is combined with other materials. The United States Department of Agriculture gives the following recipes for several of these good combinations:

Baked Steak Stuffed With Rice.

1 1/2 or 2 pounds of 2 tablespoons round or flank steak stock or gravy
1 cupful cooked rice
1 onion, chopped
1 tablespoonful fat
1 tablespoonful parsley
1 tablespoonful of 1 tablespoonful Worcestershire sauce
1 cupful flour

Have the steak cut thin, and pound it well. If flank steak is used it is well to score it on both sides with many diagonal cuts. Spread on the steak a stuffing made in the following way: Brown the finely chopped onion in the fat, stir in the flour, the Worcestershire sauce, and the stock, and cook this mixture until it is thick; then stir in the rice and parsley, and add salt if necessary. After this stuffing has been spread on the steak, roll it and tie it, or fasten with skewers, and bake slowly for 1 1/2 hours. A few strips of bacon or other fat may be laid across the top, and as the fat cooks out from them, it may be used for basting. Serve the roll hot, slicing it across the roll.

Oysters Scalloped With Rice.

3 cupfuls cooked 1 cupful milk
rice 2 tablespoons flour
1 pint fresh oysters 1 cupful chopped salt
1 cupful chopped salt
2 tablespoons of Pepper
butter, drippings
or other fat

Place alternate layers of rice, oysters and celery in a baking dish and pour over them a smooth white sauce made by melting the fat and stirring in the milk, the flour, the salt and the pepper. Bake for 20 minutes.

Baked Rice With Cheese.

4 cupfuls cooked 1 1/2 cupfuls tomato juice rice 2 cupfuls grated 2 cupfuls milk
cheese 2 cupfuls salt
1/2 cupful chopped Pepper
pimiento

Mix the ingredients well together and pour into a baking dish. Cover the top of the dish with the pulp left from straining the tomatoes. Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven and serve hot.

Baked Rice and Giblets.

1 cupful of cooked 2 cupfuls gravy
giblets 1 tablespoonful
2 cupfuls cooked salt
rice Pepper

Chop the giblets fine, mix with the other ingredients, pour the mixture into a greased baking dish, and bake for 20 minutes. A little finely chopped celery or green pepper may be added if desired.

Stewed Kidneys and Rice.

2 veal or 5 lamb butter or other kidneys fat
1 teaspoonful salt 2 cupfuls cooked
1/2 teaspoonful pepper 1 cupful rice
1 onion, chopped 1 cupful water
4 tablespoonfuls 1 tablespoonful flour

Trim, split and cook the kidneys for 10 minutes in boiling water. Cut them into small pieces, add the salt, the pepper, and the chopped onion, and saute them in the fat until brown. Place the browned kidneys and onion in a baking dish with the cooked rice. Make a brown gravy by adding the flour and the water to the fat in which the onions and kidneys were browned, and pour it over the rice and kidneys. Set this dish in a hot oven until the mixture is heated through.

How to Freshen Brined Peppers for Stuffing

Experiments by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture in the utilization of green peppers brined for six months have shown that there are several satisfactory ways of using these vegetables after they have been freshened. They are put into three times as much water as their own volume of cold water, heated to simmering, from 170 degrees F. to 185 degrees F., and held at this temperature for 35 minutes. This water is then drained off, an equal quantity of fresh cold water is added, and the simmering repeated. After being drained a second time the peppers are again put into the same quantity of water, heated to simmering point, and left to cool for three hours. This repeated heating leaves the peppers very tender and mild in flavor, but satisfactory for stuffing with chopped meat and vegetables, rice and cheese, or any of the mixtures used as filling for fresh peppers.

Vitamins Are New

Vitamins are among the comparatively recent discoveries of science. Little is known about them or the part they play in the diet save that there are several kinds that are necessary for normal health and growth and that when they are left out of the diet for a long time so-called "deficiency diseases" develop. At least three kinds of vitamins are now recognized, which, until more satisfactory names are agreed upon, may be known as A, B and C. All three of these vitamins may be present in milk.

Simple Rack for Spools Found Very Convenient

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Spools of thread and silk in a work basket have a trying way of getting their ends snarled, with consequent waste of time for the sewer, and also much thread and silk. Mrs. W. W. Blough, a Missouri farm woman, devised this simple and convenient rack which hangs near her sewing machine. Anyone could make a similar rack.

using a board of suitable size and shape, and large heavy nails. Mrs. Blough is a member of a home demonstration group interested in clothing work. The photograph was taken by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Carrots and Apples May Be Baked in Same Dish

Apples have many uses in dishes necessary to meat. It has always been a tradition to serve apple sauce with pork, or to put an apple inside a roast goose, or in the mouth of a baked young pig. Apple fritters or fried apples appear more often with the meat course than as a dessert, and many people are familiar with the southern combination consisting of sweet potatoes and apples baked in layers. An addition to these ways of serving apples with the main course, consists of preparing them with carrots in the proportions given below. This recipe is one of a number of combinations of vegetables tested by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, in experiments to determine new or better ways of cooking every-day vegetables to conserve their valuable mineral constituents and vitamins.

Carrots Baked With Apples.

4 small apples 1/2 teaspoonful salt
3 young carrots 1 tablespoonful sugar
1/2 cupful boiling water 1 tablespoonful butter

Pare and core the apples. Scraper and cut the carrots in half. Place all the ingredients in a baking dish and cook for 20 minutes with the cover on. Then remove the cover and cook for 15 minutes more, or until the carrots are tender and enough water has evaporated to make a rich juice.

Candlewax Stains Easy to Remove From Cloth

If colored candlewax stains on clothing are treated promptly they can be removed without great difficulty, says the United States Department of Agriculture. These waxes consist of paraffin in which an organic dye is dissolved. Remove the paraffin as completely as possible by scraping it away, then place a clean blotter on each side of the fabric over the stain and pass a warm iron over the spot. The grease is melted and is absorbed by the blotting paper. Then dissolve the coloring matter remaining in the fiber by sponging it with denatured alcohol. If a slight grease spot still remains, remove it by sponging with one of the cleaning agents, such as chloroform, carbon tetrachloride, ether, gasoline or naphtha, and benzol. The first two are the safest to use as they are not inflammable. Take the greatest care in using any of the inflammable solvents. It is best to use them in a shady place out-of-doors; if in the house, by an open window and away from all flames.

Sometimes the part of the material having a spot has to be immersed in a bowl containing the cleaning fluid. In general, when this is the case, it is more satisfactory to immerse the whole article finally in fresh cleaning fluid, which prevents the formation of rings.

Curd of Boiled Milk

The curd of boiled milk is finer and more easily acted on by the digestive organs than that of either raw or pasteurized milk, though it is commonly said to be more constipating. The fat globules also are somewhat altered, and cooked milk fat may be slightly less easily emulsified than the raw. The food value of the sugar in milk is not changed by ordinary cooking.

We want you to make this test

We want every weak, puny, fagged-out man and woman in America to make this test: buy one bottle of Tanlac at your druggist's, take it according to directions for one week and see how quickly you get started back to full strength and vigor.

We know what we are talking about. Tanlac has helped millions. In our files are more than 100,000 letters of praise from grateful users.

Don't confuse Tanlac with ordinary patent nostrums. It is Nature's own tonic and builder, compounded from roots, barks, and herbs that we gather at great expense from the four corners of the earth.

Tanlac goes straight to the seat of your trouble; cleanses and purifies the blood stream; puts your digestion in proper shape. First thing you know you have an appetite like a starved child. You rest at night and your whole body begins to feel the stir of strength and energy.

Don't you be discouraged. Don't put off testing Tanlac another day. Get a bottle now and in a week you should notice signs of real improvement. Then you

Mission Beach School Notes

Written for "The Beach News" By Pupils Under Direction of Miss Sarellen Morgan

By Lois Stephens

The higher grades of the Mission Beach school have three new pupils—Harry Williams, from Eureka, Montana; David Rees, from San Diego, and Richard McNulty, from the Military Academy.

The entire school is going to the zoo and art gallery on Thursday. The children have been making animal posters and hope to obtain some good ideas from their trip.

The upper grades are studying the age of chivalry and find it very interesting. They have some pictures of Robin Hood which they received from the library.

Last week a photographer took a picture of each room. The pictures are now on sale at 25 cents each.

Three new swings have been put up at the west end of the building. The children are enjoying them very much.

Spring vacation comes March 24 to April 4.

IT'S A FACT

THAT advertising is the best force to use in order to attract attention to your business.

THAT continuous advertising is the power that brings steady business.

THAT only the continuous advertisers take the lead in the business world. Non-advertisers simply lag behind, little known and soon forgotten.

THAT it is a well known fact that business comes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated. If you don't invite business by advertising you should not expect much of it.

THAT business concerns that advertise reap the favor and confidence of the public.

THAT business concerns that invite business by truthful advertising grow in popularity.

IT COSTS LESS TO SELL ADVERTISED GOODS. TRYING TO SELL GOODS WITHOUT THE AID OF ADVERTISING MEANS LOST TIME, LOST EFFORT AND LOST MONEY.
